Promoting positive youth behaviors by supporting diverse

September 2016

Dear Supporter,

Let's face it – our world is growing more connected every day.

We wouldn't dream of leaving home without our smart phones, or allowing a few hours of our days to pass without checking email, searching the web or sharing status updates.

But these connections are not always healthy, especially for our youth. It's no surprise that social media feeds, filled with highlights from our friends' lives, create feelings of insecurity – ones our youth may struggle with every day. If left ignored, these feelings may turn into behavior issues like substance use, mental illness, bullying and suicide.

Research has shown there are links between these behavior issues, but there's one link that's missing – ways for our youth to develop knowledge and skills that prevent problems before they start. And that's where together, we can make a difference.

By joining in Kansas Family Partnership's work with your contribution, you can connect our youth to programs, trainings and resources that help them make positive decisions every day. Our goal is simple – to create a network youth can connect with when they begin to doubt themselves. With more than 20 years of experience working with youth across Kansas, our agency knows this support system is critical to their success. But we need your help.

With every hour that passes, youth make connections that may jeopardize their well-being. You can be the missing link that connects them to a healthier future now. Becoming a Partner is as simple as a $20 donation, but our opportunities don't end there. From Advocates and Leaders to Innovators and Visionaries, we need everyone who sees the value in developing positive behaviors among our youth.

We hope you'll create the connection that starts a chain reaction today.

Sincerely,

Michelle Voth
KFP Executive Director
